Galveston Island Vintage E-cards
...to aid in the recovery

HOME ABOUT JOIN LOGIN CONTACT

...not since the great storm of 1900 has Galveston Island sustained so much damage.

On September 13, 2008 Hurricane Ike made landfall and left a path of destruction that has affected the lives of everyone on the island.

Galveston Island Vintage E-cards has been created to allow everyone to help with a simple donation to aid with the recovery.

Please click here to sign up using our secure shopping cart and your Visa, Mastercard, Discover or American Express card.

When you join our site for an annual charge of $10 you will have full access to send unlimited vintage e-cards to friends and family as often as you like for the entire year.

Click here to preview the cards!

The Galveston Island vintage e-cards are based on original issue Galveston Island postcards. Our site allows you to send a personal message e-postcard to anyone with an email address or you may select a pre-written holiday message. You may choose to send the vintage postcard now or schedule it to be sent at a later date, you can even choose a special color for the font.

Thank you for helping to support the Galveston Island Recovery.

3.0 | Hide & Show Media Player

UX Requirements

Figure 1
Full screen player active on a UI page.

Figure 2
If chevron is pressed, close the window, player slides down. Media playback continues.

Figure 3
Player can be re-accessed via the buttons on the map page or main menu, or user may ask Alexa to play music, skip the song or other media commands.

Sample utterances which will invoke the minimized player (after hiding) would include:

- Play
- Stop
- Cancel
- Pause
- Resume
- Next
- Previous
- Rewind

Figure 4
Sample utterances that would invoke the maximized player would include:

- "Play jazz music"
- "Play Smoke & Retribution"
- "Play Freakonomics on iHeartRadio"
- "Play a country station from [third-party music provider]"

Additionally, "Play" is spoken when no music has been playing recently, resulting in a Start Playing" command.

Steampunk Art Project

Reginald "Shorty" Stout, Self-Actuated TeaBot, of Her Majesty's Royal Airship Brigade (Retired).

"A GENTLEMAN'S TEABOT"

This loyal TeaBot served under Major General Earl "Gray" Blunderbuss throughout the esteemed commander's military career, most notably during the bitter battles of the Darjeeling Conflict of 1864.

Even when tensions reached the boiling point, most historians now credit Shorty's punctual admonitions to "Tip me over and pour me out" for the Major General's legendary ability to Keep Calm and Carry On in battle.

Though he was retired from service upon the passing of his fearless leader, this little TeaBot, "Shorty" Stout, continues to faithfully serve High Tea at 4 o'clock on the dot to this day.
